

John Butler

John Butler has worked as a global investment strategist for more than 20 years and has advised many of the world's largest institutional investors, sovereign wealth funds and central banks.

He has served as a Managing Director at Deutsche Bank, Lehman Brothers and Dresdner Bank, in charge of global teams responsible for interest rate, currency and commodity strategy and has been ranked #1 for interest rate strategy by Institutional Investor Magazine.

John is on the record having predicted many of the most important global macroeconomic and financial trends over the past decade, including a prolonged period of low interest rates and bond yields; a secular bull market in gold; and a US-centric housing and credit bubble that would eventually burst, leading to the largest financial crisis for over a generation.

John Butler's publications include his popular Amphora Report investment newsletter and The Golden Revolution (John Wiley and Sons, 2012), a book explaining the causes and consequences of the 2008 global financial crisis and exploring the financial market implications of global monetary regime change. His research has been cited by numerous publications including the Wall Street Journal, Financial Times, Nikkei Shinbun, Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung, Boersenzeitung, Handelsblatt, Neue Zuercher Zeitung, Milano Finanza and De Telegraaf.
